

It's time for the code requirement to go. If some hams want to use it, let them but to make the others "test" for it is like requiring everybody test in a stick shift car for their drivers license when 90% of the cars are automatics.